

Cara Mengaktifkan Cookies Pada Browser

Mozilla Firefox

How do I change cookie settings?

Note: Cookies are enabled by default in Firefox.

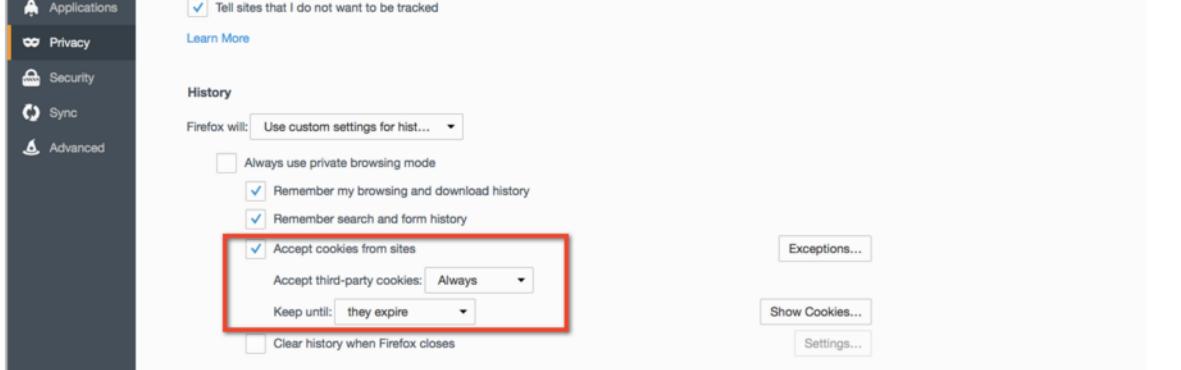

To check or change your settings:

1. Click the menu button and choose Options.
2. Select the Privacy panel.
3. Set Firefox will: to Use custom settings for history.

The screenshot shows the Firefox Options menu with the Privacy panel selected. The main content area is titled 'Privacy' and contains sections for 'Tracking' and 'History'. In the 'History' section, the dropdown menu for 'Firefox will:' is open, showing options: 'Remember history', 'Never remember history', and 'Use custom settings for history'. The 'Use custom settings for history' option is highlighted with a blue selection bar. A tooltip below the dropdown explains: 'Use custom settings for history. You can control which sites you can find, form and search history, and keep cookies from websites you visit.' At the bottom, there's a link to 'clear your recent history'.

4. Check mark Accept cookies from sites to enable cookies, and uncheck it to disable them.

This screenshot shows the same Privacy settings panel as the previous one, but the 'Accept cookies from sites' checkbox is now checked, indicated by a blue checked icon. The rest of the interface remains the same, showing the tracking and history settings.

- If you are troubleshooting problems with cookies, make sure Accept third party cookies is also not set to Never. For more information, see Disable third-party cookies in Firefox to stop some types of tracking by advertisers.

5. Choose how long cookies are allowed to be stored:

- Keep until:

they expire: Each cookie will be removed when it reaches its expiration date, which is set by the site that sent the cookie.

I close Firefox: The cookies that are stored on your computer will be removed when Firefox is closed.

6. Close the about:preferences page. Any changes you've made will automatically be saved.
